County school board approves tighter distribution of populace

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County School District members voted for a more equitable distribution of the population when they gave approval Monday to new boundaries for their five districts.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph stated that as of now, District 2 and 3 have the largest amount of population.

"There are about 2,500 more people in District 3 than in Districts 4 or 5.

Randolph said the school district wished to stay as close as possible within similar lines of the county supervisory districts.

"Some precincts will be split (different than the county districts), but not as much as with the other plans (division selections)."

Charles Ray Thomas of District 2 will represent the largest percent of minorities at 18.1 percent within one district. The county is listed on a whole as 94.5 percent white, 4.5 percent black, .5 percent American Indian and .5 percent Asian-Pacific.

District 4, represented by Kay Sones, will be the largest in population with 3,349, and District 5, represented by Lennette Necaise, will be the smallest with 3,070, an 8.78 percent difference between the two extremes.

The board anticipates approval from the U.S. Justice Department since minority voting power will not be split, but instead centralized within Thomas' district.

Within Hancock County the city limits of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are outside of the county school district as is the northwestern section of the NASA buffer zone, which falls into the Picayune Municipal School District.

District 5 representative Lennette Necaise was not present for the unanimous vote.

Holiday 'bashes' heat up July 4, 5 for law officers

BY TRACI BONNEY

Two fights July 4 and an argument July 5 resulted in nine arrests over the Independence Day weekend for the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, according to Investigator Matt Karl.

SHORELINE PARK

Three Shoreline Park men were arrested the evening of July 4 following a fight, Karl reported.

He said Hancock Sheriff's Department and Waveland Police Department personnel broke up a fight in which Tracy Poyadou, 26, of Atlantic Street was stabbed in the shoulder.

Poyadou was transported to Hancock Medical Center, where he was given several stitches and released, Karl added.

He said Poyadou was arrested for simple assault and disturbing the peace, and was released on a $1,000 bond.

Also arrested were Prather Fitch, 29, of Artic Street, who witnesses reported stabbed Poyadou, and Gerald Farve, 45, of Atlantic Street. Karl said Fitch was charged with aggravated assault and disturbing the peace, and was released on a $5,500 bond, while Farve was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest and released on a $1,000 bond.

CLERMONT HARBOR

Five area men turned themselves in July 9 after a July 4 late-night fight on the beach in Clermont Harbor, Karl reported.

He said Billy Pittman, 26, 6164 Clermont Blvd., reported being attacked by a group of men on the beach near midnight July 4. Pittman was transported by Mobile Medic to Hancock Medical Center, where he received several stitches on his face.

According to some witnesses, weapons were involved in the altercation, Karl said.

School budget

Bay-Waveland approves with one dissenting vote

BY TRACI BONNEY

The split vote came after board member Charles Benvenutti insisted upon reviewing a list of capital improvement suggestions before voting. These improvements included repair work, asphalt paving, landscaping and other upkeep needs in the schools.

Board president Linda Penrose told Benvenutti the capital improvements would be discussed later in the meeting, but Benvenutti refused to vote until he heard the list.

Benvenutti said he thought the items should be included in the budget. Jim Wilcox asked if including the items would obligate the board to fund them. Penrose said it would, but Benvenutti said it wouldn't because the budget was simply a roadmap for the district.

Penrose called for the vote. Benvenutti, who votes first, said nothing, which Penrose took as an abstention. She then voted "yes," as did Gary Yarborough and Willie Bradley. Wilcox abstained.

After the vote was announced, Benvenutti said, "I want to change my vote to 'no,' because abstaining is going along with the majority, isn't it?"

After accepting the district's FLE project application approval, spreading on the minutes the district's intention to continue participating in the Hearing Impaired Consortium, and approving a list of sole source suppliers, the board began discussing the list of capital improvement suggestions.

The improvements will be funded through short term notes, if no objections are made to the

County plans firing range for police, sheriff officers

BY TRACI BONNEY

After years of effort, local law enforcement officers will soon have a firing range in Hancock County.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Officer Jim Odom said he has been working four years to obtain the property for a county firing range. Construction and maintenance of the range will be a joint effort between Bay St. Louis, Waveland and county law agencies, he added.

Hancock County jail trusties and others erected a gate at the entrance to the 10-acre range site Wednesday. Odom said the gates, constructed by jail trusties, were from rodeo shoots at the old county fairgrounds.

The site, in the NASA buffer zone off Bayou La Croix Road, is owned by Hunter White. Odom said White agreed to lease the land for the range at $1 a year for 25 years.

"The range will have a course where up to 20 officers can practice and qualify for firearms use; a combat course, which is a stress-type course; and in the next few years we want to have a skeet range so officers can practice shooting at moving targets.

"When the range opens, it will be available to any officer, local or state, because they're covered by the insurance. Our insurance won't cover civilians right now, but I'm hoping that in the future we can open the range up. For instance, I'd like to see us be able to teach women how to safely handle firearms."

Odom said the law enforcement agencies received the go-ahead to construct a range, local law personnel had to use ranges at Stennis Space Center, Gulfport or Biloxi. However, distance and time considerations made these locations difficult for officers.

Odom said the county currently has seven certified firearms instructors: Tom Burlesoe, Bay St. Louis; Dave Shepherd, Kevin McIntosh, Waveland; Sam Necaise, Jim Odom, Gerald Necaise and Eddy Jennings, Hancock County.

Bourg resigns recreation post

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County recreation director Hilda Bourg notified the County Park and Parkway Commission Monday, that as of July 31 she is resigning from her present position.

It was reported in the Wednesday edition of the Sun Herald that in the letter of resignation, Bourg said she could not continue "under the present circumstances."

In a phone interview Wednesday, Bourg said she preferred not to comment on her reasons for resigning.

The board of supervisors accepted the letter of resignation Tuesday from a commission member and placed it under advisement.

The board reported that the letter was not signed.

Bourg verified that she initialed the letter.

Commission member E.J. Marengo stated that the commission would advertise for someone to fill the position.

Marengo also stated that the commission was to discuss Bourg's resignation during an emergency meeting Monday at 8 a.m. in the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Drive.

Bourg has been recreation director for the county for the past three years.

Bay to change utility billing cycles

BY TRACI BONNEY

Bay St. Louis city utility customers won't receive a bill when they are expecting it this month.

However, that doesn't mean they are getting free water and gas service, either.

A change in the billing system is expected to save money for city customers, according to Mayor Edward Favré.

Favre said the billing is being changed from a four-cycle system to a monthly system, which means customers will receive their bills around August 1.

He explained that this will put the bills out to the customers about the same time they receive their income, be that a paycheck, Social Security check or other revenue source. This will benefit those customers who receive only one check a month.

In addition, changing the billing to a monthly cycle will streamline the utility department's activities and allow the department to concentrate its meter reading and billing into a smaller time period.

"This will allow more time for the department to work on other work orders and projects, such as meter changeouts and water and gas line repairs," Favre said.

Favre said the city has considered shifting its billing cycle for some time, but chose to do so now for several reasons.

He said some customers will see up to six weeks' service on the next bill, and explained that summer is a good time to change the billing because people's gas usage is lower. "So that's not going to cause the bill to be too much more than it would have been.

"Also, because of all the rains, people aren't using as much water, so that will show up as more savings. In addition, this is coming right after the utility rate reduction.

board at its July 29 special meeting. Of about 10 items listed, six were selected for immediate attention: construction of an athletic field house at Bay High School; paving, flooring, landscaping, roof repairs, door and lock repairs and replacements at various schools.

Benvenutti suggested that the board refinance existing short term notes for two school buses and some roofing work to take advantage of lower interest rates, but Yarborough, who had moved that the board announce its intent to borrow $115,000 in short term notes, said he didn't think the district would save much by taking a lower interest rate but extending the payments for another year.

Yarborough's motion passed unanimously.

The board also accepted the Outcome Performance Reports for district skills tests, and approved the June meetings minutes and claim docket; bids for school and food service supplies and equipment; two student transfers;

The resignations of maintenance worker Donald Spiess, janitor Ann Faye and teachers Wendy Lamb, Johnnie Bolton, Carol Avery, Stephanie Roberts, Martha Johnson, Nyla Barrett, Alison Taylor and Elizabeth Skinner; and recommendations to hire teacher assistant Sherie Ladner, social worker Melissa Johnson and teachers Janet Eiveash, Suzanne Gilmore, Rachel Lincecum, Marilyn Senter, Kristina Van Hutten and Sarah Young.

The board adjourned to July 29, 7 p.m.

Some days we walk a lonely path
With teardrops in our eyes,
Caught up in worries of the day
Before we realize
That God is there to share the load

The weight is eased when shared by two—
All we need do is ask.

Hi, y'all! I'm back. How was your July 4th weekend? Not too worn out or hung over, I hope.

We interrupt our regularly scheduled oddness to bring you the following prerecorded column. The regular weekly strangeness will resume next Thursday.

What do you do to retain your sanity?

Sanity? What's sanity?

Come, let us explore the dark inner recesses of the mind, and ways to keep those recesses from going out to recess and not returning.

Who are you? What are you doing? Stop that! Ouch! Oof! Mmmph mffm hmmm mmfhmm — WHAP

Please pardon the interruption, my friends. Now, let us begin. The expression of poetry as seen in the —

Thought you had me, huh? Well, take that! Now, let's see if you can get out of that!

As I was saying, let us explore sanity and how it can best be retained.

Most common insanity is not true insanity, but merely a temporary lapse due to stress or sudden trauma. True insanity results from years of living with a reality warped in some fashion.

Since most "insanity" is a temporary state, it is safe to assume that it can be prevented, or at least mitigated.

If it is stress-related, the obvious answer is to reduce or eliminate the stress. To reduce stress, you might try reducing your workload or indulging in some relaxing activity or hobby.

If the "insanity" is trauma-related, your best bet is to get counseling or, at the very least, support and advice from strong friends and relatives.

Thought you had me locked up good, didn't you? Well, fooled you! BONK — Now you can't bore these people with your ridiculous psychobabble.

I will not be confined in such an ignominious manner! I am sending you to the abyss, in the name of reason!
No, not that! Please don't send — Aaaaaiiiiii!!!!!

I believe things will now get back to normal. Now where were we? Oh, I remember — the expression of sanity in the poetry of — or no, was it the retention of poetry in the sanity of — or was it the sanity of poetry in the retention of — no, maybe it was the poetry of sanity in the expression of the retention of —

Vic Franckiewicz seeks re-election to state Senate

Franckiewicz, a Bay St. Louis native, is the 1972 St. Stanislaus valedictorian and a 1976 graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he earned a bachelor of science in urban studies and a master in city planning. He is currently attending the Loyola University Law School in New Orleans.

VIC FRANCKIEWICZ

He is the owner of Public Insight, a governmental consulting business which is currently on contract with the Gulf Regional Planning Commission for agency management and reorganization planning. He served as city manager for the City of Picayune from 1989 to 1990, and as Bay St. Louis mayor from 1985 to 1989.

From 1981 to 1985, he was supervisor of longe range planning for Martin Marietta Aerospace in New Orleans.

He is a member of the Hancock County Historical Society, the Bay St. Louis Business Association, the Hancock County Lions Club, the Mississippi Democratic Executive Committee, Mississippi First and Common Cause.

Franckiewicz said, "The 1992 legislature must renew Mississippi's commitment to education. The state has a financial crisis, and we have to balance the budget, but not at the expense of education. Putting off educational reforms will only cost more later in high unemployment, low wages, and bigger welfare rolls.

"Mississippi's budget crisis must be squarely faced by streamlining state government, and by genuine tax reform. I believe in a simple, broad-based tax structure to share the tax burden fairly. Specifically, we have to deal with expensive car tags, antiquated tax loopholes, and the money Mississippi owes federal retirees from taxing their pensions unfairly.

"Mississippi's economic development efforts need to keep pace with the world economy. For us in South Mississippi, this means modernizing agriculture, developing and marketing aquaculture products, and promoting the high technology opportunities of the Stennis Space Center.

"The gaming industry can also be an important part of the state's economic development effort if it is regulated properly. Right now, our gambling laws are among the weakest in the nation; we need to change that.

"I will continue to support state government reform, a new state constitution, and initiative and referendum. I believe in representative government, but the people should have the right to vote directly when the legislature does not respond. I also support term limitations on elected officials, and will continue to vote for recall laws to let the voters remove public officials who abuse their power."

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

It is good news that some $37,500 has beem allocated in a federal grant in an effort to find a tenant for the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant at the Stennis Space Center.

The occupation of the facility would be a great boost for the economy of the Coastal area.

Good paying jobs are needed in the area, and I am sure any industry, as others have already done, find competent employees from the work force from the area.

Congressman Gene Taylor has been working diligently on finding a tenant or tenants for the facility, which at one time had some 1,500 employees as an ammo plant, but has been moothballed by Uncle Sam.

St. Rose de Lima's Church Fair was rained out last weekend along with several other events.

The local parishioners will try again this weekend and have just moved all the events back one week.

Even though there were three out of four days with rain for Our Lady of the Gulf's Crab Festival last weekend, it appeared the food booths did very well.

I would like to commend those who worked so diligently in preparing the site for the Crab Festival.

To me it seemed everyone was more at ease, compared to the old highway location.

Festival goers did not have as many parking problems, and you cannot beat those large live oaks for shade.

I really enjoyed the food at the festival as I got my share three of the four days.

I plan on visiting St. Rose's fair this weekend to get some of their good food.

St. Rose's fair will be Saturday and Sunday and will be located on the school grounds across from the church on Necaise Avenue.

I hope to see you at the fair.

Recycling is big in many areas and on the increase in Hancock County.

It is good that our citizens are beginning to understand and practice recycling.

We have a young couple in our area who are trying to do their part in recycling and cannot understand how someone has the nerve to steal their containers.

This past week several of the containers they supply to their customers have been stolen in Waveland along Nicholson Avenue and Beach Boulevard.

I am hoping the culprit or culprits will be caught and forced to pay their just dues.

Armed Services Committee reviewing Gulf War

In a follow-up to our victory in the Persian Gulf War, in recent weeks the House Armed Services Committee, of which I am a member, has started an extensive review of the war.

HASC Chairman Les Aspin has said that for the next several years, the United States must give close study to changing national security requirements during the post-Cold War world. Reviewing the fine performance of our Armed Forces in the Persian Gulf gives us an opportunity to design a defense for this new era.

Our review of the Persian Gulf War is divided into six areas: the air war; the ground war; logistics; maritime operations; personnel; and command, control, communications and intelligence. Now is the time to talk about what went right and what went wrong.

We have held hearings and will publish the results in a number of reports. Some preliminary assessments of the war were taken into consideration when the House passed the $290.8 billion Fiscal Year 92 Defense Authorization bill. The bill included funds for enhancements to the Bradley Fighting Vehicle, upgrades to the M1 tank, additional OH-58D scout-attack helicopters, more chemical protective equipment, commitment to Friend or Foe identification equipment and upgrades of the F117A Stealth Fighter.

We also heard testimony recently from General Norman Schwarzkopf. The general had great praise for our fighting men and women. He also noted the fine performance of their equipment and the overwhelming support our troops received from the American people. But the most important thing Gen. Schwarzkopf told us may have been what he termed our "unmet needs."

He told the committee that we needed to improve our on-the-scene capacity to collect detailed intelligence about specific targets on short notice. Certainly there is an obvious need for improved high-speed sea lift of men and equipment. Mine-sweeping capability, both at sea and on shore, must be improved.

The general stressed we need more reliable methods for friendly forces to identify each other in the heat of battle and we need additional heavy duty off-the-road trucks.

In each of areas cited by Gen. Schwarzkopf, we voted in the Armed Services Committee and in the entire House to add more money than the Pentagon originally requested.

Desert Storm was a great victory for our fighting forces, but the testimony of Gen. Schwarzkopf and the other hearings and reviews being done by our committee will ensure that the U.S. military has the very best equipment and training for any future threats to our national security.

Grass clippings dumped in Bay become nuisance

To the Editor:

On two different occasions, the last being this past July 4th weekend, we witnessed a homeowner along North Beach Boulevard dump all his grass clippings into the Bay. The grass clippings were from an acre or more of property.

This happened in the area of the Dunbar Avenue Pier. After the grass is dumped into the Bay it splashes up against the seawall the whole weekend. As it slowly drifts between the numerous piers, it begins to dissipate and sink. This is in an area where many families swim, fish and crab off their piers and the seawall.

We are new homeowners in this area and spend our weekends here. We admire how clean the city of Bay St. Louis is kept. We have seen, on Saturdays, clean-up crews pick up trash along the road sides of Dunbar and North Beach Boulevard.

Last year when we first saw the dumping happen, we went to the Sheriff's office on Court Street to report the incident. They said it was a city concern because it was within the city limits of Bay St. Louis.

This weekend while the same people were still dumping their grass in the Bay we went to the Bay St. Louis Police Station on Old Spanish Trail to report the same. They said they did not know if the dumping of grass clippings into the Bay was legal or not!

We, as residents, do not know if it is legal or not. We also do not now if it is ecologically good for the water or the animal life in the water. What we do now is that it is an ugly mess and very unpleasant to fish, crab or swim around.

If all the residents along the Bay did the same thing, we would have a major problem along this scenic and beautiful drive.

This one resident obviously does not care what he is doing to the Bay visually or ecologically. He may think he is doing a service to the environment by not bagging the grass in plastic bags.

Why not use the grass as mulch around the grounds of his home? We wonder what will happen to the leaves that fall in the autumn? Will they also be headed to the Bay?

Just imagine how scenic a drive down North Beach Boulevard would be if we all dumped our grass clippings into the Bay!

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Redistricting flunks federal passage, may delay election

Once again, the Mississippi Legislature has failed to outsmart the U.S. Justice Department. The lawmakers' plan for reapportioning state legislative districts in this year's elections flunked its constitutional test.

Once again, it was a case of a white-controlled Legislature short changing black representation in the state's legislative branch.

Given Mississippi's long history of denial of polit cal rights to blacks, perhaps the only surprise in this latest fiasco is that quite a number of legislators who voted for the redistricting plan actually thought the Justice Department would approve it.

At least this time, there was a solid minority of legislators, not nearly all of them black, who had spoken out against the majority plan and forecast its rejection. Importantly, they had offered an alternate plan which now will become a major factor in resolving Mississippi's reapportionment muddle.

Certainly the Legislature won't be given a second chance to resolve it. It's going to be done once more by a federal court.

What is regrettable is that some legislators, such as Rep. Frances Savage of Brandon, who heads the House Reapportionment Committee, had worked for almost two years preparing the Legislature to come up with an acceptable plan and then saw their work come to naught.

A big loser in the redistricting debacle is obviously House Speaker Tim Ford, who became identified as a guiding force behind the flawed "committee" redistricting plan which narrowly won out over the Black Caucus-backed "alternate plan by a 64-58 vote in the House.

Despite denigrating backstage talk of some white lawmakers to label the alternate plan as the "nigger plan," the facts are that 38 white members of the House joined the 20 black members in voting for the alternate plan.

Suddenly, the events of last week in the wake of the rejection of the Mississippi legislative seating plan have vaulted previously-ostracized Atty. Gen. Mike Moore into the key role in controlling the destiny of the state's efforts to keep this year's legislative elections on track.

Moore had been kept from having any part in the redistricting legal strategy by the legislative leadership. In fact, Sen. Hainon Miller of Greenville, who chaired the joint Reapportionment Committee, had made the statement that the committee would use its own private attorneys because he "didn't trust" Moore.

Legislators' rap against Moore had stemmed from the AG's decision three years ago to enter a consent decree settling a federal lawsuit applying to Voting Rights Act to judicial districts in Mississippi. As a result of the settlement, some half dozen black judges were elected from newly created districts.

Moore had maintained that Mississippi could not win the suit, and further litigation would be futile and costly. His judgment was completely redeemed when the U.S. Supreme Court two weeks ago held in Texas and Louisiana cases that state judicial elections were subject to the federal voting law.

In effect, Moore saved Mississippi from wasting hundreds of thousands of dollars in legal expenses. Ironically, the 1991 Legislature cut Moore's budget by $300,000.

Now that the Legislature's redistricting plan has struck out with the Justice Department, the action will likely shift to a three-judge federal court panel blac:: plaintiffs have requested to take over reapportioning legislative seats to create more electable black districts in the state lawmaking body.

Moore as the state's chief legal officer will be in charge of the state defense in the federal court redistricting suit, much to the consternation of some lawmakers. Moore made it clear last weekend that he would move quickly to reach a settlement of the suit and would give lawmakers three days this week to come up with an agreed plan.

"Either you settle it or I'm going to settle it," was Moore's message to the legislative forces as he prepared to sit down with them Monday.

Even Tim Ford agreed that settlement of the lawsuit was now the best route to take so legislative elections can be held this fall.

But Lt. Gov. Brad Dye and Sen. Miller were advocating that the case be taken all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Nobody was taking any bets that legislative primaries will be held on time Sept. 17. Or even this year.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial From Mississippi Economic Council

MEC

The palette of free enterprise

An artist is free to use talent, paint, brush and canvas to create a work of art.

In the free enterprise system, a man or woman of vision can use skill, opportunity and dedication to create a business, resulting in personal profits and work for others.

The key for both art and business is understanding of the system in which the creation takes place.

For the 11th consecutive year, a select group of classroom teachers from all sections of the state will attend the Free Enterprise Summer Institute for Teachers, sponsored by the Mississippi Economic Council's American Enterprise Center.

This year the focus of the weeklong session will be "Portrait of Mississippi," with a concentration on how government, the economy and business climate link together in our free enterprise system. The teachers will also have an opportunity to focus on successful businesses in the state and to tour a major industrial facility.

Teachers who successfully complete the Institute will receive three hours of graduate credit from the University of Southern Mississippi.

The American Enterprise Center was created in 1979 by the MEC to encourage and promote understanding and support of the free enterprise system.

Scholarships for teachers to the Summer Institute have been available since the beginning of the program. Those teachers who are chosen to attend agree to share the knowledge gained in the 40 hours of instruction with teachers in their own school districts during the 1991-92 school year either through a staff development session or a department meeting.

Because of the Institute and other programs, approximately 8,000 teachers in the state have received training in the free enterprise system, and thousands of elementary high school, college and university students have benefited from American Enterprise Center-sponsored informational and educational activities.

Bay Side man remains stable after shooting

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

A 21-year-old Bay Side Park man who sustained a gunshot wound to the head Monday is reported to be conscious and doing well, according to a Memorial Hospital spokesperson.

Joseph "J.J." Antoine, 21, suffered a gunshot wound to the forehead from a .45-caliber handgun at approximately 2:30 p.m., stated Hancock County Sheriff Department Investigator Nathan Hoda.

Hoda said, "We believe the gun was being handed to Antoine when it discharged."

The gun belongs to the grandfather of a 16-year-old Bay Side juvenile, who was present when the gun went off, the investigator added.

Antoine was rushed to Hancock Medical Center by Mobile Medic, then transferred to Gulfport Memorial where he underwent surgery.

Hoda said the case is under investigation.

Burton, Priest among Coast teachers in pilot program joining industry/education

Thirteen teachers were selected from among more than 300 applicants from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Jackson counties to participate in an eight-week program, Summer Industrial Fellowships for Gulf Coast Teachers.

The program, designed for elementary through community college level teachers, is co-sponsored by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Economic Development Council and Johnson Controls World Services Inc., resident agency located at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center.

Those accepted to the program include Suzette Burton of Hancock High School and Kenneth Howard Priest of St. Stanislaus High School.

Gulf Coast companies participating in the program include the U.S. Naval Oceanographic Offices and NASA at Stennis, Chevron of Pascagoula, Mississippi Power Company of Gulfport, Trinity Marine of Gulfport, First Chemical Corporation of Pascagoula and Hancock Bank of Gulfport.

The pilot program offers challenging summer jobs that relate directly to the subject area the applicants teach. Seven Gulf Coast companies are providing both a supervisor and a mentor to support each teacher working on the program.

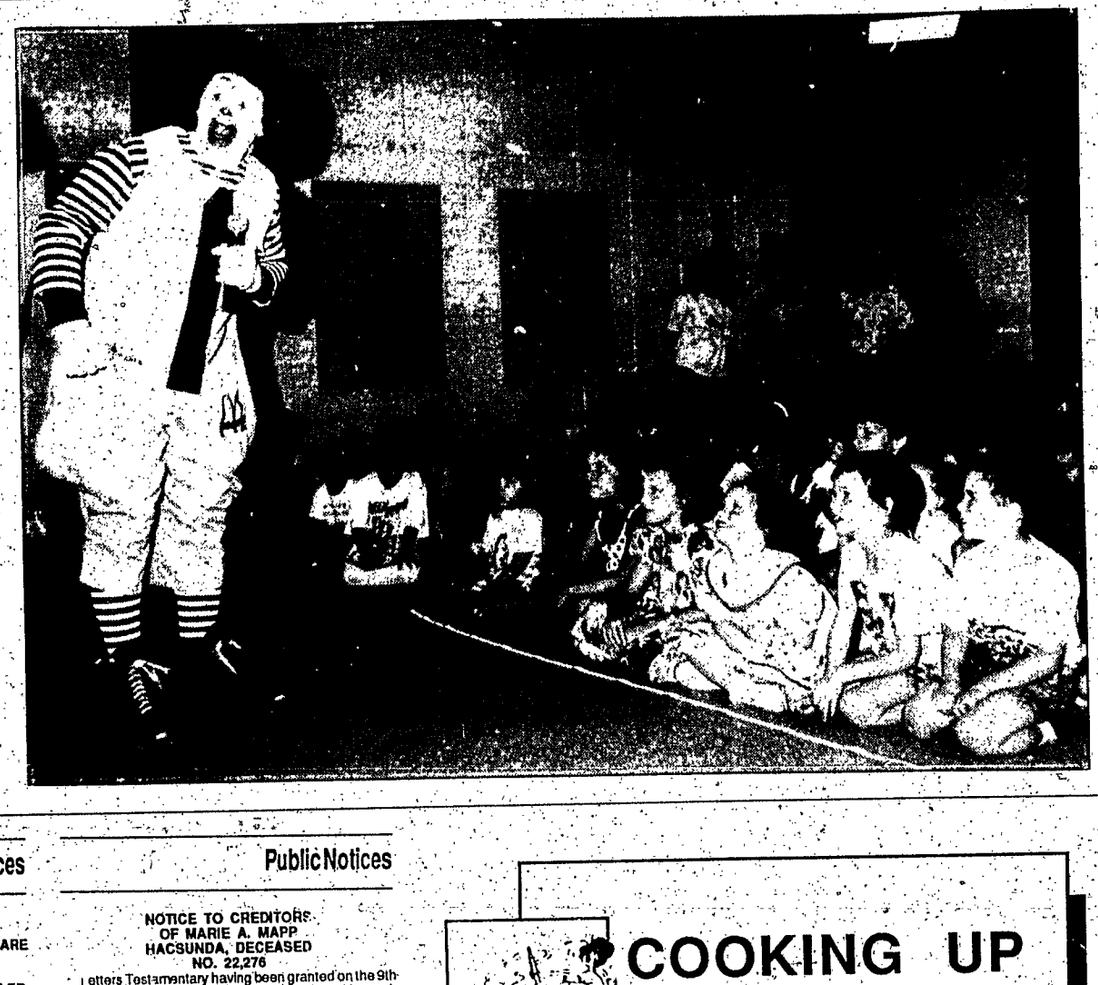

Both educators and industry are expected to benefit from this program. It will allow teachers to augment their teaching salary while gaining information and new skills they can take back to their classrooms in the fall.

The program is expected to improve their understanding of career opportunities available in the area as well as the educational requirements necessary for students to compete in today's technical job market.

Industry gains summer employees who have strong communication skills and who are proficient in technical and scientific areas.

Reading with Ronald

Ronald McDonald encouraged about 150 children to continue reading during the summer as the City-County Library wrapped up its Summer Reading Program. The session with Ronald last week was the last regular program before this week's award ceremonies, in which more than 300 children are being given certificates for completing their reading goals. The Summer Reading Program is an annual program sponsored by the library to urge children to keep reading for both fun and information while they are out of school, according to library director Prima Wusnack. ## COOKING UP A STORM

By Katie McGuire Caire

You may have thought that the political slogan, "A Chicken in Every Pot" was a pronouncement of relatively recent times, but far back in the 1500's I believe it was, France's King Henry IV gave voice to this thought—"I want there to be no peasant in my kingdom so poor that he is unable to have a chicken in his pot every Sunday."

Whether Henry's countrymen ever reached that ideal is open to debate, I'm sure; but through the ensuing years, other statesmen and politicians picked up on the slogan, "a chicken in every pot" as a promise of better times in store.

Chicken is quite often in my cooking pots and skillets, for it's a favorite of mine; and there are so many, many ways to cook and serve chicken that it's a standby for many cooks, in dishes from plain and simple fare to elegant feasts. And, it's kind to the household budget as well!

Chicken Marengo, one of my favorites, is a festive garlicky-tomato-wine treat, as delicious today as it must have been to the Emperor Napoleon on that long-ago day on the battlefield at Marengo, the swiftly improvised concoction of a harried and battle-weary cook.

History tells us that on that historic day, the Austrians had at last retreated; Napoleon, who had eaten nothing before the battle, was suddenly ravenous, and requested that his chef, Durand, cook up a victory feast.

With food in woefully short supply over the ravaged Italian countryside, the chef was hard put to come up with a festive meal; but he managed to gather together a chicken, a few crawfish, some tomatoes and mushrooms and garlic and spices—and a new dish was born!

You don't have to be embattled to enjoy Chicken Marengo, a tasty dish which needs only a green salad and French bread to complete, followed by a sharp cheese and fresh fruit, in the French manner. Here's:

CHICKEN MARENGO
(my version, that is)

1 (2½ to 3 lb.) broiler-fryer, cut into serving pieces, or quartered, as you prefer
2 Tblsp. olive oil
2 medium onions, chopped
2 Tblsp. chopped green onions
1 clove garlic, chopped
1 bay leaf
1/4 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 Tblsp. flour for sprinkling
1/4 cup dry white wine, a little more if needed
Pepper, salt to your taste
3 medium tomatoes, chopped fine
6 (or so) crawfish (optional)

In large, heavy skillet, brown the chicken on both sides in the heated oil. Add the onions, green onions and garlic, and cook just until the onions turn transparent. Sprinkle the flour over, and cook for just a minute or so—don't burn, of course—then add the bay leaf, wine, tomatoes, pepper and salt, and for me, a dash of hot pepper sauce. Cover, and simmer gently for 30 minutes or until the chicken is tender.

Add the mushrooms at this point, also the crawfish (if using in this dish), taste and correct seasoning if necessary, adding a bit more wine or broth if sauce is too thick. Cover skillet again, and cook until the mushrooms turn very light golden in color. I like to sprinkle fresh chopped parsley over this dish when serving. (Four servings).

St. Rose Fair, one more time

Fund-raiser reschedules food, music and fun this weekend

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

St. Rose de Lima is having its 65th anniversary fair, one more time, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Because of last weekend's rains, St. Rose will repeat the yearly fund-raiser.

A raffle, totaling $5,000, will be drawn at 11 p.m. on Sunday. First prize will be $2,000, second prize, $1,500 and third prize, $500. Ten prizes of $100 each will be awarded. The winners need not be present.

Saturday will be the only day a food selection will be made available. Roast turkey, cornbread dressing, sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce and hot rolls will be for sale in the school cafeteria, along with hot dogs and hamburgers at an outdoor booth.

A variety of crafts from wooden items to Althea Curry's handmade afghan will be on display.

An assortment of homemade cookies and cakes from family recipes will be available to satisfy the sweet tooth.

The St. Rose Choir is sponsoring the Rose Room Night Club, during the three nights of the fair from 8 p.m. until.

Rose Room patrons will be served from a bar and is strictly for those over 21 years of age. Jazz, blues and rhythm and blues will be the featured entertainment.

On Friday, a talent show beginning at 8 p.m. will be presented to the general public.

From 5 to 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, the "Brother-in-Laws" will provide some hot jazz, followed by the "Street Image" dance troupe. An auction will be held at 8 p.m., followed by a fashion show at 9 p.m. At 11:30 p.m. disc jockey Travis will spin records until the night ends.

Sunday will begin with a softball tournament at 10 a.m. Fair visitors are invited to bring blankets and watch the swings. At 5 p.m. Bo & Dee will rock the night until 7:30 p.m. when "ACE" takes over. At 11 p.m. the raffle drawing will reveal this year's big money winners.

All craft booths will open at 10 a.m. and Saturday's food booths will open at 11 a.m.

There will be a Kiddie Land for the children which will offer games, finger painting, modeling clay art, a space walk and much more.

Krazy Kamp

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's 1991 summer production gives young stars chance to shine

BY JANET MCQUEEN

For a cool retreat from the heat (and an entertaining look at tomorrow's thespians) visit the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre this weekend to view "Krazy Kamp."

The 1991 Summer Theatre Workshop for Youth will present the slap-stick comedy Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon.

Written by Tim Kelly, the play takes place at Camp Pocahontas, an exclusive girls' camp, according to director Marie Bernard. The fun begins when the health department condemns neighboring Camp John Smith, and the campers invade Camp Pocahontas.

Meanwhile, gangster Clams Marinara is after Elmer Crumm, who has run away from a carnival with a stash of money hidden inside a stuffed animal.

Officer Dumm is looking for runaway Kate Milfloss, who is trying to become an actress. When her car breaks down, she seeks refuge at Camp Pocahontas, impersonating a camper. The police are after Clams and his girlfriend, Dixie Doll. Enter snake charmer, Cleopatra Nile, who helps Elmer Crumm escape from the clutches of Clams.

The fast-paced action unfolds in a cartoon-like setting, said Bernard, who began work on the production June 17. The children have met Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons learning theatre techniques and stage directions. Approximately half are repeaters from previous productions.

Produced under the auspices of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, the play will be presented Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m. Admission is $4 adults, $2 children.

Bernard hopes to divide the workshop into two groups next summer, beginner and advanced productions.

Photos by Marie Bernard

Under the gun

Natalie Smith, as Dixie Doll, points a gun at Kevin Watts (Officer Dumm), snake charmer Kay Schuengel; Brant Ryan (Elmer Crumm) and gangster Clams Marinara, played by Steven Mauffray.

Not a job!

Set painting

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

A Gift to the AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY MEMORIAL PROGRAM goes a long way in cancer control.

Flounders, trout, crabs abound in the right places

It's time to go fishin' y'all.

Boy, the herd of turtles put in so many miles this week they had to go to the turtle smith and be re-shoed.

Last week I left a lot of fishin' buddies on dry land when I told ya I had to take off double-quick, fast-like, for a place called Ille La something or another.

Well, that place is called Ille La Pete, and they are 'murderizing' the flat fish in that place. Ille La Pete is located on the last piece of land on the eastern tip of the Louisiana marsh (you can see Cat Island from Ille La Pete.)

Work the sand flats on the entire east end of Ille La Pete during an incoming tide. While working the flat, you should look for small bait fish jumping out of the water.

Generally, this will mean something is trying to turn that bait fish into dinner. Cast your bait to where that hungry fish is playing and he will become your dinner.

Best baits: chartreuse beetles, live minnows and small live mullet on the bottom. Best depth to fish: between 12 inches and six feet.

If you have the boat under you to be fishing the waters around Ille La Pete, you might want to check out the west side of Cat Island. It is a known fact that fishermen never ever lie about the size of fish that they catch, so the reports from Cat Island must be true.

I am hearing that they are catching graduate school trout on the west side of Cat Island. You have heard of school trout? When school trout get big they are college trout. Graduate school trout are super big trout still in school. Reports indicate 21 inches and up for these super big trout out at Cat Island.

What is incredible is that these super big trout are moving around in schools big enough for you to catch your 25 limit.

Best bait: small live croaker. Second best: small live croaker with or without a float.

For those folks who like crabs, not the two-legged kind, but those outstanding, mouth-watering, super-delicious, blue-claw kind, they are out there, off the seawall, big time plenty.

Now I know that you are gonna say that the best way to catch crabs is for the entire family to set out a bunch of nets and each kid pick up a net every ten seconds.

Crabbing is a family sport. But, if you want enough crabs to feed the family, try this method. Get a dozen (two dozen is more better) crab nets. Place about 10 or 12 feet of line on each net and tie a float to the end of the line. Place your nets in about five or six feet of water. The nets should be spaced at least 25 yards apart. Run your nets about every 10 minutes. I forgot to tell you that you need to run your nets in a boat unless you are "real tall."

The whole family can have a great time crabbing this way, and you can't believe the number of crabs you will catch. Don't forget the life jackets.

Best bait: anything cheap.

Gotta go quick-like and check out some strange lights floating at night up and down Bayou Caddy.

Hi yo turtle awayyyy.

Jobs for Mississippi Graduates

Employability skills taught in Hancock High pilot program

Becky Shirah

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The Jobs for Mississippi Graduates program at Hancock High School gave 27 students an advantage in their search for employment.

Offered only to seniors, the class is designed to provide employability skills to students who do not plan to attend college immediately after graduation.

"We concentrate on building self-esteem and confidence," said job specialist and teacher Mark France. "We try to instill the need to stay in school for at-risk students."

The program is one of six in the state, and is affiliated with Jobs for America's Graduates, a nationwide school-to-work program established in 1979 in Delaware.

Brother and sister, Mike and Becky Shirah, completed the class at Hancock in May. Becky is employed at D&K Quick Stop, while Mike will soon begin working for J. E. Merritt Construction.

For both, the JMG program was beneficial.

"We did a lot of role playing, like in the interview process," said Becky, 17. "One of us would be the interviewer, one the secretary, one the job seeker. It helps you to go through it a few times before you actually have to do it."

Mike noted their 'performances' were videotaped, so the students could see their mistakes—such as bad posture, inarticulate speech and nervousness.

Becky hopes to eventually attend a community college, but will also hold a job. Mike was rejected by the Marines for health reasons, and will work until he can save some money for college.

JMG participants took several field trips throughout the year, where they met JMG students from other cities and competed against them in employability skills contests.

Two HHS winners were selected to compete nationally.

Mike said other parts of the curriculum stressed how to keep a job by being a good employee.

Participants in the Jobs for Mississippi Graduates are chosen by application. For additional information, contact France at 467-1943 or 467-2251.

Gulfview, Waveland schools to receive computer lab funds

Gulfview and Waveland Elementary schools have been awarded funding for a computer lab as part of a statewide project to teach kindergarten and first grade children to read and write.

Governor Ray Mabus announced the grant, which will be funded by a partnership of charitable, business and state government sources, including the Riordan Foundation of Los Angeles and the RORD Foundation of Greenwich, Conn.

The goal of the program is to put a computer lab in every Mississippi elementary school.

"When this project is complete, Mississippi will be the first state in the country to have such an extensive computer-based literacy program for its children," Mabus said.

"It is impossible to calculate the impact this will have on future generations. With the help of schools like Waveland Elementary, we know it wil be tremendous," the governor said.

"Writing to Read" is an educational computer system designed by IBM that helps develop the writing and reading skills of kindergarten and first grade students.

Using a variety of tools—from computers, cassette tapes and children's books, to clay, sand, blocks and crayons—children discover that they can read by first learning to write anything they can say.

The schools will receive computers, computer software, teacher training and accompanying instructional materials for the lab.

The bus will then proceed south on Wittmann Road to North Street, east on North Street to Pass Christian Middle School.

Coast Episcopal marks end of year

Coast Episcopal Elementary School recently held end of the year ceremonies at Christ Episcopal Church.

The sixth grade, which received special recognition as graduates from the elementary school, sang "That's What Friends Are For," led by music teacher Ann Hopper.

Laurie Parten presentd a check for $500 to the school on behalf of the sixth grade. The class raised the money through bake sales and an unusual presentation of "Gone With the Wind." The money will be used to purchase a crushed ice machine for the students to enjoy during the hot months of fall and spring.

The 1991 American Legion Awards were presented to sixth graders Yvonne Christine Salloum and Michael Albert Mancuso by John D. Rutherford, representing American Legion Post 139. Salloum is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Salloum of Gulfport. Mancuso is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Bruno Mancuso of Waveland.

This year CEES principal Betsy Grant presented Principal's Awards to four sixth graders, Brooke Hartwell, Laila Hlass, Courtney Hopper and Amelia Taylor.

Grant honored these students not only for their academic achievement, but also for their willingness to assume responsibility, their willingness to be followers as well as leaders and their commitment to each other and the other members of their class.

Certificates of Completion for the elementary phase of their education were presented to Sarah Alexander, Christine Andres, Joel Carter, Christopher Chamberlain, Janis Chenevert, James Collins, John Dedeaux, Ruby Dedeaux, Matthew Dillenkoffer, Emily Drobny, Ann Fayard, Brooke Hartwell, Laila Hlass, Courtney Hopper, Danielle Inabinet, Robert Lambert, Andrew Lanclos, Michael Mancuso, Marc Mortimer, Jolean Perry, Yvonne Salloum and Amelia Taylor.

Presenting the certificates were Fr. Jan Caridad, Grant and the sixth grade teachers Mark Lesniowski, Laurie Parten and Malin Chamberlain.

Report cards were presented to the students by their teachers Gloria VanderNoot, kindergarten; Lisa Williams, first grade; Christine Ladner, second grade; Suzy Treutel, third grade; Kathleen Jenkins, fourth grade; and Laurie Parten, fifth grade.

A reception was held on the lawn of the church with refreshments provided by the Parent Teacher Organization.
